Relay for Life begins Friday

By LINDA IRELAND

LaRue County's Relay for Life will be held this weekend.

Twelve teams have been working for months to raise money for the American Cancer Society with the Relay marking the end of another fundraising cycle.

Relay For Life is a 24-hour event with individuals taking turns walking to honor those people who have battled cancer and remember loved ones lost to the disease.

The event is developed, produced and implemented by community volunteers.

Last year, teams raised about $40,000. This year's goal is $49,500. As of Monday night, teams were within $4,200 of their goal.

The Relay kicks off 7 p.m. Friday, May 11 at Hodgenville Elementary School. It ends at noon, Saturday, May 12.

In its early years, the Relay lasted 24 hours but has been shortened the last several years.

Bill Hawkins, community representative for the American Cancer Society, said the volunteers are "very excited" about the extended hours.

"The committee has planned a full schedule of ceremony, games, activities and entertainment to ensure there is something for Local firefighters struggled to contain a barn fire on S. L&N Turnpike Sunday afternoon but the structure, along with several farming implements, was a total loss.

Chris Shaw had finished mowing some fields on the Buffalo farm of Josh and Jamie Marksbury, his brother-in-law and sister, about 5:30 p.m. He parked the tractor and bush hog in the barn and returned to the house.

His brother Jimmy Shaw said they heard a "pop" or compression

Cars, tent pulled out of Rolling Fork

SPECIAL TO THE LARUE COUNTY HERALD NEWS

Sunday afternoon, the LaRue County Sheriff's Department investigated a report of a pair of vehicles spotted in the middle of the Rolling Fork River near the Nelson County line.

The cars appeared to have been washed downstream due to floodwaters, according to a news release.

Campers, who were not identified publicly by the sheriff's office, had pitched a tent on a gravel barge beside the water and parked the cars in the river on the barge on May 4.

When heavy rain moved in on May 5, the campers were unable to move the cars due to the rapid rising of the river. They were able to get out safely that night, despite 10-to-12 feet of flood waters.

The vehicles were moved by a local towing company May 6.

The sheriff's office located the owners of the vehicles by contacting property owners.

Deputy Brian Smith, Deputy Robbie Brownfield and Chief Deputy Russell McCoy investigated.

Senior Center brings song and dance to downtown

By RON BENNINGFIELD

For 33 years senior citizens from far and near have found three and a half-hours of musical entertainment every Saturday night at LaRue County's Senior Center located on Walters Avenue in Hodgenville.

Part of the reason for that enjoyment, according to co-managers Charles and Viola Riggs, is that the performers as well as the audience feed off of each other's enthusiasm.

"I love to watch the reactions of the singers as the people in the audience clap along or dance to their music," Charles Riggs said. "It's like a big family atmosphere here."

The Riggs have managed the weekly event since 2009 but have attended and participated for 14 years. Charles plays guitar and Viola, bass.

"We'll average 60-85 people here every week except for the winter months," Charles said. "Once in a while, we'll have some people in their 40s, but most are older, with the oldest

Teen injured when turkey takes out truck on way to tennis match, but plays on

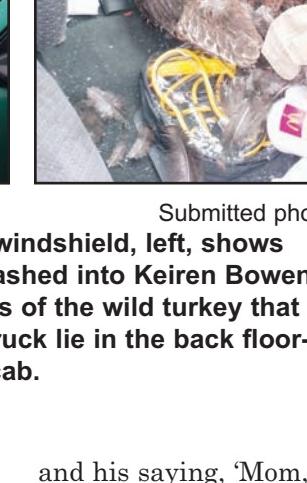

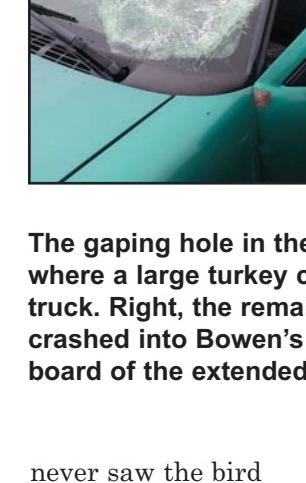

By RON BENNINGFIELD

On the next-to-last day of spring turkey season Saturday, Keiren Bowen bagged a large bird without ever having to fire a shot and without even hunting for the gobbler.

In fact, the turkey found him, for while the LaRue County High School junior was driving near Country Lane on Highway 31-E from his home in Magnolia to a regional tennis match in Elizabethtown, a large turkey crashed through the front windshield of his GMC truck, grazing the left side of his head before slamming into the back interior of his extended cab.

"It cut a place above my left eye as it flew in, but it happened so fast, I really didn't know what had hit my windshield," Bowen said.

He remembered being behind another car as he was heading north near South Fork Church about 9:30 a.m., but he never saw the bird before it hit.

Part of his windshield directly in front of the steering wheel exploded into thousands of small fragments upon impact, spraying Bowen's eyes, hair and clothes with tiny, sharp projectiles.

Temporarily blinded and bleeding, he pulled off the road and then called home for help.

"When I heard the tone of Keiren's voice and his saying, 'Mom, help me!' I thought the worst must have happened," said Bethany Bowen, Keiren's mother.

She raced to where her son had managed to pull his truck off the road.

"He was bleeding some, but he couldn't open his eyes and said it felt like glass was in them," she said.

After flushing his eyes with water and cleaning the glass from his hair and clothes, young Bowen was able to see, but both eyes were light sensitive and he felt as if bits of glass were still in them.

"We took him to the doctor who said the glass had scratched both eyes," said Bethany Bowen. "The doctor didn't see any glass remaining, but said there could be a very small piece still in his eye."

Not wanting to let his teammates down, Bowen was determined to play his singles match which his coach told him could be delayed only until mid-morning after which he would forfeit.

Wearing sunglasses to shield his eyes from the light, Bowen lost the match, but had the satisfaction of finishing his season by giving his best effort and having quite a story to tell about his strange encounter with a wild turkey.

being 92 or 93."

Age, however, is only a number to those attending according to Riggs as almost everyone there either performs or dances during the show that begins at 6:30.

"The rules have stayed the same," he said. "Each group gets 30 minutes, followed by singles getting three songs each, and they rotate during the night."

Though slow dances are popular, so are the rock and roll classics with upbeat tempos.

"You wouldn't think about older people requesting us to play, 'The Twist' and 'Johnny Be Good,' but there are many fast songs like that which they like to dance to," he said. "A few might have breathing problems and don't go at it as hard as others, but every one of them has a good time, plus it's good exercise."

Those performing provide a variety of other genres including country, blues, gospel and bluegrass.

"I don't think there's any one type of music that's most popular there," said Riggs. "They enjoy it all."

History

According to the Riggs, the gathering is an outgrowth of impromptu jam sessions on the front porch of a vacant house south of Linwood in the late 1970s. In 1980, the group of musicians and singers assembled each Saturday night at Center's Grocery in Linwood and formed the Linwood Opry.

Woman arrested on multiple charges after allegedly biting deputy

By ERIN L. MCCOY
Landmark News Service

A New Hope woman bit and tried to stab a sheriff's deputy as she was placed under arrest in New Haven Sunday.

Rachel Lee

McConnell, a.k.a.

Rachel Lee Kemp, 29, had bench warrants from LaRue and Nelson counties issued against her when deputies arrived at 353 Center Street shortly before 8 p.m.

Deputies were called to the address on a report McConnell had locked herself inside and that there was possible drug activity, according to a report from the Nelson County Sheriff's Department.

When Dep. Kaelen Matthews arrived, the front door was open, and as he approached McConnell allegedly ran out the back door. Matthews reported that she then went back in the house and said, according to the report, "I am tired of it and trying to get clean."

When Dep. Mike Clark arrived he discovered three bench warrants in LaRue County for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs, second offense; driving on a DUI-suspended license and one headlight. A Nelson County bench warrant had been issued for alcohol intoxication in a public place, first and second offense.

As Matthews put handcuffs on her he asked if McConnell had anything on her. She allegedly pulled a knife out of her pocket and tried to stab Clark. The knife was taken away from her but in the police cruiser, she allegedly tried to kick out both windows.

She may have caused more than $1,000 worth of damage to the windows, Nelson County Sheriff Stephen Campbell said.

McConnell allegedly bit Clark's arm and kicked a deputy jailer at the Nelson County Jail.

At first, McConnell was refused at the jail because she was reportedly threatening to kill herself, Jailer Dorcas Figg said. She was taken to Flaget Memorial Hospital, where a release was signed before she could be admitted to the jail at 1:51 a.m. Monday.

McConnell was charged with two counts of third-degree assault on a police or probation officer, first-degree criminal mischief and second-degree disorderly conduct.

At the jail she faced additional charges of DUI, third offense, driving on a DUI-suspended license, second offense, and bribery of a public servant.

McConnell has since been indicted by a Nelson County grand jury on those charges. Bail was set at $20,000, plus conditions.

McConnell faced a revocation hearing May 3 in LaRue Circuit Court. The Court was checking the status of a flagrant nonsupport case in which McConnell was to be paying $50 per month.

Several police agencies took part in pursuit of a white Grand Am Friday afternoon after a report of reckless driving on Lincoln Boulevard. The car continued around Lincoln Square, slowing when it got behind farm machinery. The car stopped in the Rite Aid parking lot about 4:20 p.m. The driver advised police she had a medical condition; she was later taken to Hardin Memorial Hospital. No further information was available as of Tuesday.

Man pleads guilty to unlawful transaction

Jeffries maintains his innocence with Alford plea

A Hodgenville man pleaded guilty to an amended charge last week in LaRue Circuit Court, yet continued to assert his innocence.

James E. Jeffries, 68, of Hodgenville, was charged last year with sexual abuse of a 10-year-old child.

Through a plea agreement, Jeffries pleaded guilty via an Alford plea to one count of third-degree unlawful transaction with a minor, a class A misdemeanor. Through an Alford plea, he maintains his innocence but agrees that the prosecution could likely prove the charge.

He was sentenced to 12 months, conditionally discharged after two years. He agreed to have no contact with the alleged victim, abide by other court restrictions and forego any civil claims arising from the criminal case. He was fined $155 which has been paid.

He does not have to register as a sex offender, according to the plea agreement.

Commonwealth Attorney Whitney Meredith said the agreement was reached as all parties "agreed they wanted to avoid a trial."

New journey begins for staff writer

In June 2010 I embarked upon one of the most interesting, fun and sometimes crazy journeys of my entire life – the start of my job at The LaRue County Herald News.

I can say with a sincere heart that the people I have encountered are like no other. LaRue County has definitely been blessed with its fair share of folks with kind thoughts and open arms.

I've been welcomed into businesses, meetings, luncheons and community functions, festivals, on to family farms, into churches and several other events that this small town has to offer – and I want to say thank you for that. I have cried and laughed with several community members, and even laughed until I cried with others. I am consumed with memories that I will be slow to forget.

Calling Candis

That's why it saddens me to say that my tenure here has come to an end.

I have accepted another career opportunity that has come into my path in hopes that I can reach the goals I someday wish to conquer.

I will still be part of this community, as it is,

and will hopefully forever be, my home.

My daughter will attend school right here in LaRue County and play soccer with the youth league.

I am proud of that, because I know how blessed I am to live in a community in which the schools are a priority.

I have learned through attending school board meetings that our educators really do go the extra mile.

Personally, I hope to join in some volunteer efforts I have had my eye on for quite some time. Our community has a great volunteer force that works to achieve great things; I hope to be a part of that.

Most importantly I want to thank the community. Without your support, my success here would have been impossible. Thank you for calling in ideas and showing me new things about LaRue County.

I have met some incredible people with amazing stories.

Last but not least, thank you to my co-workers. You have seen me struggle and succeed. Your lessons, both personally and professionally, are dear to my heart.

I will miss working with the people of this town on a day-to-day basis, but I find comfort in knowing we will still keep in touch as we go about our daily lives in this place we all call home.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

May is Foster Care Awareness Month

Many people know of foster care, but few really understand how the system works, the role of the foster parents and most importantly, the experience of the children and youth in care.

More than 6,800 Kentucky children and youth are in out-of-home care. Most are placed in temporary foster care due to parental neglect or abuse. The average age of a child in care is 10.7 years.

More than 73 percent of the children/youth in care are white; 19.3 percent are black and 4.3 percent are Hispanic.

Of the children/youth in care, 50.7 percent are male; 49.3 percent are female. The average length of stay for children in care is 25.5 months.

More than 32 percent of the children in care range in age from 12 to 18 and most just want a place where they belong, where they feel secure.

Is foster parenting easy? No.

Is it for everyone? No.

Will you make a lot of money foster parenting? No.

What you will get is the deep satisfaction of knowing you made a difference in a child's life – whether the child is 5 or 15. Your actions may be the ones that turn his or her life around.

There is an urgent need for qualified foster parents, especially those who can accept a sibling group of two or more children.

To learn more, call (270) 740-2300 or (866) 485-0722. Help make a difference in a child's life.

I had an odd encounter the other day. I was talking with an older lady ... wait, I take that back. I was listening to an older lady.

But I thought I was going to talk too.

Anyway, she was telling a story and asked a question and I started to answer and she kept right on talking. I think I said three words before realizing it wasn't my turn to talk.

Not wanting to be impolite, I apologized for interrupting and continued listening.

She kept talking and I believe, covered three subjects before pausing. I tried to answer the original question during the lull. I didn't get a chance. She repeated the conversation in its entirety. At the exact same point, she asked the question of me tances.

I like to talk as much as anyone else. I'm just choosy about the listener.

And that's the time I miss my mother the most.

That sweet little woman would sit and listen to me babble like I was the most interesting person in the world. If I was having a bad day, she'd have the most calming effect. With just a few words, she could convince you that things were going to be OK.

She was one of the few people I've ever known who would, without fail, let you finish your sentences when you were talking.

Oh, I'd listen to her too ... but not nearly enough. One of these days I'll have to write down the stories she told me about growing up during the Depression and how she met my dad and how she loved to sing while she was working. My granddaughters need to know about her.

Mom passed away eight years ago this month. There have been so many times I have wanted to talk over things with her or ask her opinion on something. And there have been many other times that I have been glad she was spared listening to the things that weigh me down.

Funny, how I still want to live up to her expectations, which were always so gently stated.

I am so blessed to have had her for a mother. And doubly blessed that I see so much of her in my daughter.

I love you, Mom.

Always will.

again. I started to answer, again getting out the same three words before she interrupted me and kept talking.

This happened a third time. I decided I would excuse myself, leaving the question unanswered before I got caught in a "Groundhog Day" scenario where I was doomed to re-live the conversation until finally, I could finish my sentence.

I wasn't sure that day would come.

People do like to talk.

Typically, I'm a listener. I can – and have – listened for hours to friends and acquaint-

Harvestland Church offers free oil change to single moms

By CANDIS CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Harvestland Community Church will host their fifth annual free single mom's oil change 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. May 12.

The event is held "to connect with the community," according to project lead Billy Smith.

According to Smith, 90 cars were serviced during the one-day event last spring.

"At this point pre-registration isn't necessary," said Smith. "However we are encouraging people to call just to give us an idea of how many kids we need to plan for."

"We do encourage the kids to come along because we will have four or five activities set up for them to participate in," added Smith.

Mothers can expect to spend about an hour and 20 minutes while the SMOC team changes the oil and performs a preventative maintenance inspection. The wait could be longer or shorter depending on the turnout.

Free oil change, brunch, refreshments and childcare will be available during the day.

"Other churches are welcome to come and see what we are doing here," said Smith. "We would love for others to get involved ... this is not a Harvestland Community only event."

The church, which began the oil change after attending a conference in Bowling Green, is one of only a few in surrounding counties that facilitates the event.

Volunteers from LaRue and surrounding counties including Hart,

Hardin and Nelson will be on hand during the event.

For more information, or to call ahead, call Smith at 270-735-7786.

Man charged with DUI, wanton endangerment

A Hodgenville man was charged with numerous counts April 29 after allegedly fleeing from police.

Bathea O. Piggee, 39, was clocked driving 37 in a 25-miles-per-hour zone on N. Lincoln Boulevard by Hodgenville Officer Eddie Dockery.

According to Dockery's citation, the officer turned his blue lights on the vehicle; however, Piggee did not stop and continued driving along several streets and ran a stop sign. He finally stopped the vehicle on Beechtree and Dockery, with the assistance of Officer Brian Taulbee, arrested him.

Piggee was charged with speeding, 12 miles per hour over; fleeing or evading an officer; operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol or drugs, aggravator; first-degree wanton endangerment; first-degree wanton endangerment, police officer; driving DUI on a suspended license; and resisting arrest.

He was lodged in the LaRue County Detention Center under $9,500 bond.

He will be arraigned May 16 in LaRue District Court.

Man pleads guilty to receiving stolen property

Anthony Tennill Scherer, 42, pleaded guilty in LaRue Circuit Court to an amended charge of receiving stolen property valued at less than $10,000. According to court records, he was found in possession of a stolen vehicle from a Louisville dealership last June.

He was ordered to serve one year, enhanced to 10 years due to a persistent felony offender charge and fined $385. The sentence will run concurrently with a Hardin County sentence and consecutively with a LaRue County sentence for a probation violation.

Scherer was previously found guilty of promoting contraband, theft by deception, criminal trespassing and criminal possession of a forged instrument.

Faith in God helps us survive the cancer roller coaster

The "cancer roller coaster" sums up the cancer journey for the patient and loved ones.

One moment you're on top with good news and hope (treatments are working, cancer's in remission) only to plunge downward in unexpected twists and turns.

My husband was diagnosed with lymphoma almost four years ago and has undergone multiple chemotherapy treatments and two bone marrow stem cell transplants. It is difficult to not allow cancer to dominate our thoughts.

The same can be said for those suffering from other diseases, trials and heartaches. It sometimes threatens to take over our lives.

A beloved hymn by B.B. McKinney, "Have Faith in God" is especially appropriate when dealing with the ups and downs of life. The second verse gives us hope: Have faith in God when your pray'r's are unanswered; Your earnest plea He will never forget; Wait on the Lord, trust His Word and be patient; Have faith in God, He'll answer yet.

Now faith is being sure of what we hope for and certain of what we do not see. (Hebrews 11:1) Our Christian faith is based on believing God's word and living our lives according to his precepts. In times of difficulty, our faith may be overshadowed by our worries – the waiting and being patient part is often very difficult.

But that's what faith is all about: trusting God, rejoicing in his love and blessings and turning all our problems over to him.

But I trust in your unfailing love, my heart rejoices in your salvation. I will sing to the Lord for he has been good to me. (Psalm 13:5-6)

I pray that all of us going through difficult situations will remember to "Wait on the Lord, trust His Word, and be patient" ... and have faith in God.

Evan Webb to participate in weather forecasting course

During Western Kentucky University's May 2012 summer term, eight meteorology students in Dr. Josh Durkee's annual Field Methods in Weather Analysis and Forecasting course will set out to forecast, analyze and document severe convective storms across the Great Plains.

Evan Webb, a student from Hodgenville, will participate.

This will be the third year of this course offering at WKU, which won the 2010 "Creativity and Innovation Award" from the North American Association for Summer Programs.

Evan Webb

During the 2010 and 2011 trips, WKU groups documented nearly 20 tornadoes, numerous damaging hail and wind events, and multiple flash floods. This year, from May 17 to May 31, the group plans to drive 7,000 to 8,000 miles across multiple state lines to continue that success, Dr. Durkee said.

Relay for Life: Church teams unite in cancer cause

This is the final installment of a series of stories in support of LaRue County Relay for Life.

Of the 12 LaRue County Relay for Life teams, Buffalo Baptist and First Baptist

Hodgenville are the two largest church teams in the area. They began their Relay fundraisers early in the Relay year and continue through this weekend.

Buffalo Baptist's team was organized in 2004 by Faye Puyear and Diane Bault. It is currently headed by Carolyn Mather with assistance from Annetta Rafferty, LaDean Self and Peggy Hawkins. Since its beginning, the team has contributed more than $45,000 to LaRue County's Relay for Life. In recent years, the team has averaged well over $7,500 and last year was recognized as the top team in LaRue County with Gold Team status. Their largest fundraiser for this year was their annual barbecue and silent auction where they raised more than $5,000.

Mather said the number one reason their 20-member team is so active is that their congregation has been hit particularly hard by cancer with many of their members succumbing to the disease. Travis and Stephanie Ward joined the team to honor the memory of Travis's father, Ronnie Ward, who died of colorectal cancer, and to support Stephanie's step-dad, Steve Hatcher.

"Finding Steve's cancer hit us hard, but he has been cancer free for four years now," said Stephanie. "We still have him and that's all that matters."

Other team members are Tom and Donna Coffey. Tom, a bone marrow transplant recipient, returned to Vanderbilt this past week for his one-year checkup.

"Though one strand of the DNA has not completely converted to the donor DNA, his cancer is completely gone. He will soon receive a donor Nashville and Louisville and I've seen the other side of the equation," said Vaughn. "I have helped women select their wigs and saw their faces brighten. I worked with Road to Recovery and saw what it meant to a person by just giving a person a ride to a treatment or doctor's appointment."

Deena Bradley and her entire family are a part of Relay because of her grandfather, maternal grandmother, step-father and family friends.

"Education can help tremendously in making wise health decisions and screenings can detect suspicious cells early on. The American Cancer Society is a leader in all these things," said Bradley.

With Relay only a few days away, will you join the teams and survivors on the Hodgenville Elementary Campus? It's not too late to honor someone or donate to a team. LaRue County needs you.

So far, the teams have raised $45,380.16 toward their goal of and have had great support from our church and community."

Emma Cox, who has been on the team for some time, called the team "awesome."

"Everyone comes together and works. We share our ideas and then put them into action. We are a fun team."

"Our largest fundraiser was our live auction and chicken dinner. We worked hard, but everyone had a great time," said Katie McDowell, co-captain. She added, "Over the last few years, it seems our church family has really been struck by cancer. Supporting and walking Relay is one way we can help."

Another member, Kathy Vaughn, Relays to honor her mother, Evelyn Catlett, and in memory of her son, Taylor, who died of lymphoma at age eight.

"Another reason is that I have been blessed to work with the American Cancer Society while living in

Seymour advances in regional tennis tourney

By JOHN GROTH
Landmark News Service

It was a wild first day of the 5th Region Tennis Tournament.

Just ask Keiren Bowen.

As the LaRue County junior singles player was driving from his home to the University Drive Park courts in Elizabethtown around 9 a.m. Saturday, a wild turkey came out of nowhere and crashed through his truck's windshield and into the back seat - an hour before his first-round match.

Glass went into his eyes, his neck and his left arm. Unable to see, Bowen somehow managed to drive his car safely off the road near Country Lane in Hodgenville, dial his mom's number and call his parents to pick him up.

"I didn't even see it. It came from the side. I was about to pass a car and it just hit my windshield. I had no idea what it was when I hit it. I thought it was the person that was passing me," Bowen said. "I tried to turn off the road as fast as I could. I knew that part where I was driving had an incline at some point, so LaRue County's Michelle Seymour defeated Nelson County's Amber Pate, 6-0, 6-1, in first round of the Regional Tennis Tournament.

LaRue County's Keiren Bowen overcame a pre-game injury to compete in Saturday's tournament.

I judged where I would stop in the road and then turned off. ... I didn't know what it was until my parents told me. I couldn't open my eyes the whole time."

Bowen's day wasn't over just yet.

After his parents took him home, he washed his eyes and cleaned the glass out of them. He was able to open his right eye. But his left eye still had one shard he couldn't remove.

That's when co-Hawks coach Allison McDowell called and told Bowen his match against seventh-seed Elizabethtown sophomore Hassan Haider could be delayed until 11:15 a.m. If it was later, he couldn't play.

Bowen took the risk. He went with his mom to buy some sunglasses and played his match, falling 6-0, 6-3. It was a match of injured players - pitting Bowen with his messed up eye against Haider, who broke his right knuckle four weeks ago.

"I didn't want to let the team down or anything. I wanted to be able to play my last match of the year confidently," Bowen said. "Even in that condition, I still wanted to finish out strong and try as hard as I could to do my best."

It was just as tough a challenge for Haider, who had to serve underhand to reduce the pain in his wrist. Usually if you serve underhand to an opponent, it's considered a sign of bad sportsmanship. But Haider told Bowen about his situation and he understood.

"I try to put a lot of spin on it, that way they can't get anything off it," Haider said. "Once I get to a higher level of play, I may have to switch it up, risk it all and hit overhand. It hurts pretty bad hitting overhand. If I can keep playing good, I'll hit underhand."

LaRue County's other singles entry, Nick Chantharasinh fell to Meade County's Jared Raymer 6-0, 6-0.

In boys' doubles, Kyler Hart and Trevor Sanders received a bye. Zach Lee and Lucas Pepper defaulted to Luke Keen and Jamison

Roberts of Anderson County.

The girls' side was wild for another reason - all the defaults or rather players not showing up.

Six girls' singles players or doubles' teams won by default - with two top-six seeds going down.

Meade County's Mallory Brown and Kayla Keith earned a default victory over the third-seeded doubles team of LaRue County seniors Amelia Miller and Paige Nalley, who McDowell said were on their senior class trip.

LaRue's Haylee Best and Madison Lee defeated Nettie Finn and MiKayla Dennison of Bardstown, 2-6, 6-2, 6-1.

In singles, LaRue County's Michelle Seymour defeated Nelson County's Amber Pate, 6-0, 6-1; while Central Hardin's Emily Novak defeated LaRue's Nancy Howell, 6-1, 6-2.

Monday's action

Hart and Sanders lost 6-0, 6-0 to Zeeshan Bhatti and Bilal Ahmed of Elizabethtown.

Seymour defeated Hannah Welch of Bethlehem 6-1, 6-0.

Best and Lee fell 6-3, 6-3 to Madison Cassidy and Elyssa Holt of Bardstown.

Chemicals can affect water safety

Extension Agent
David Harrison

May is Kentucky Water Awareness Month. We can observe it by helping keep our groundwater safe from contaminants.

Agricultural chemicals are an important part of farming, but, if misapplied, can lead to groundwater contamination. As farmers plant and grow crops this year, they should take steps to reduce the chance of farm chemicals in groundwater:

Read the manufacturer's label for each chemical and follow label directions for safe use and disposal.

Mix and store chemicals at least 100 feet from wells, sinkholes or surface water sources such as ditches, ponds or streams. Some chemicals have maximum use rates, as well as very specific setbacks for use around well, sinkholes, streams, rivers and lakes.

If a pesticide is spilled on a hard surface, don't wash down the area because it might carry the material to other water sources. Instead, surround the contaminated area with dirt or sprinkle on an absorbent material such as sawdust. Put the absorbent material in a strong plastic bag and dispose of it safely.

Keep the filling hose above the tank water level at all times when filling the sprayer to prevent back-siphoning. Put a clamp on top of the tank to hold a hose if necessary. Be sure someone is attending the sprayer throughout the time it's being filled.

To prevent back-siphoning, install back-flow prevention or anti-siphon devices on the fill pipe between the water source and sprayer.

Triple-rinse or pressure-rinse containers prior to disposal and empty rinse water into the spray tank. These containers can be returned at the LaRue County Pesticide Container Recycling date on Aug. 9 at Southern States.

Store chemicals in a dry, well-ventilated, cool location, isolated if possible. Keep chemicals in the original, labeled container that's sealed tightly.

Farmers should be certified by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture as Private Pesticide Applicators. Extension provides the training for the certification.

Goat and Sheep Producers meet

The LaRue County Goat and Sheep Producers Association will meet 6:30 p.m. May 10 at the Extension Office. Dr. Mike Keller will be present "Minerals Matter," a program teaching the importance of mineral supplementation for sheep and goats. There will also be election of officers and planning for the LaRue County Fair sheep and goat shows. The meal will be potluck. All interested individuals are invited to attend.

Forest Leadership Program

The LaRue County Conservation District will be offering partial and possibly full scholarships to the Kentucky Forest Leadership Program hosted by the University of Kentucky at the Lake Cumberland 4-H Educational Center in Jabez. The Conservation District needs applications by May 10. Camp brochure and application is available at the LaRue Conservation District or www.kyforestrycamp.com.

outreach and education activities.

Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Commission meets June 8

People who are hearing impaired and plan to attend the meeting should contact Kentucky Fish and Wildlife at least 10 days in advance and the agency will provide a translator.

To request to address the commission, write to Kentucky Fish and Wildlife, Commissioner Dr. Jon Gassett, #1 Sportsman's Lane, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

Conservation District accepting requests for cost share funding

The LaRue County Conservation District will accept requests for cost share funding under the Kentucky Soil Erosion and Water Quality Cost Share and Environmental Stewardship Program May 14 through June 15.

The Kentucky Soil Erosion and Water Quality Cost Share Program along with the Environmental Stewardship Program are created to help agricultural operations protect the soil and water resources of Kentucky. These programs were established by the Kentucky General Assembly in the 1994 and 2000 and over the 17 years of these programs approximately $120 million has been approved to plan, design and install much needed best management practices on approximately 14,200 farms to protect soil resources and water quality.

These annual cost share funds are administered by conservation districts with priority given to animal waste related problems and agricultural district participants where pollution problems have been identified. Initial funding for the program will be provided by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture and now also utilizes the Tobacco Master Settlement Agreement Funds.

These programs are administered at the state level by the Soil and Water Conservation Commission and the Kentucky Division of Conservation, located in Frankfort. Applications are ranked statewide and approved for funding based on available funds.

For more information, call 358-3132 or stop by the conservation district office at 606A North Lincoln Blvd., Hodgenville. The office is open 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

LaRue County High School art exhibit open May 11

Monique Hanna's art students will reveal their works to the public at the fourth annual LaRue County High School Studio Art Exhibit 6-8 p.m. May 11 in the school library.

The show will display the creations of the six seniors and 14 juniors that make up the Advanced Studio Art Class. Hanna said the seniors will exhibit at least five pieces each, with the juniors (depending on space) showing two of their works.

"By the time students get to the advanced program, they have completed two years of basic art training which includes drawing, painting, color theory and some clay," Hanna said. "The advanced course is akin to an independent study program."

The students tell Hanna what they wish to specialize in for the year and she provides them with the tools and media to create.

"One student might spend the entire year oil painting while another dedicates the year to clay sculpture," she said.

Web sites provide a great deal of information — from architecture to plant life — from which her students can choose their subject matter.

"A great deal of the student work has been influenced by the vast array of excellent photography that can be found at places like Flickr, Pinterest and other arts and crafts sites," she said. "Many students will draw from their own photography; others work purely from their imagination."

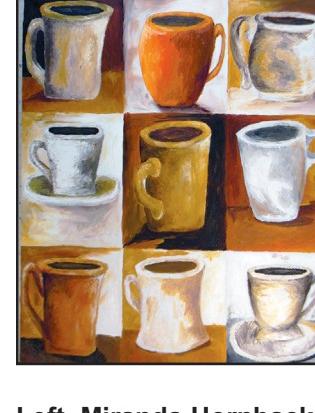

Some students work in the abstract while others choose realism, but most of the advanced students create their pieces in oil paint on canvas.

"Last year was the first year that we did not have the show at the high school," said Hanna. "Lynn Cowan (Woodland Gallery in Elizabethtown) was wonderful about providing a public venue for us, but it will be nice to return to the high school."

Seniors exhibiting their work include Casey Beckner, Darren Brennan, Cedrick King, Nikki Howell, Heather Tackett and Shane Eden.

New website lets students send transcripts to colleges

Kentucky high school students have a new resource to easily send their transcripts to colleges and universities in the Commonwealth.

Through the website www.kytranscript.org, students can manage the release of their transcripts to participating Kentucky colleges and universities. The site is provided free by the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority. It is powered by the XAP Corporation. The new site replaces the former www.GoHigherKY.org.

Students who had accounts on www.GoHigherKy.org can use the same user-name and password to access www.kytranscript.org.

Students who did not have a www.GoHigherKY.org account can create an account by going to the new site.

High schools, colleges and universities interested in participating in the transcript exchange program should contact Pennie Little at plittle@kheaa.com or (502) 696-7495.

KHEAA is the agency that administers state grant, scholarship and savings programs and provides free college and financial aid planning publications to Kentuckians.

To learn how to plan and prepare for higher education, go to www.gotocollege.ky.gov. For more information about Kentucky scholarships and grants, visit www.kheaa.com; write KHEAA, P.O. Box 798, Frankfort, KY 40602; or call (800) 928-8926, ext. 6-7372.

The LaRue County High School Parent Election Committee is seeking nominations for election of parents/guardians to the Site-Based Decision-Making (SBDM) Council for the 2012-13 school year.

The council has enormous responsibility in the setting of policies for the governance of the school. It has authority in a variety of areas to include selection of textbooks and instructional supplies, consultation on the hiring of new employees, selection of school's principal (when vacant), approving budgets, approving staffing plans, approving the school's comprehensive plan, discipline codes and approving policies to enhance the learning environment of the school.

Campbellsville University students share experiences in servant leadership

SPECIAL TO THE LARUE COUNTY
HERALD NEWS

"Thank you for not only serving us, but allowing us to serve," Michael Jennings, a freshman of Edmonton, said to Dr. Michael V. Carter, president, and Campbellsville University's freshmen classes in a service celebrating servant leadership.

Campbellsville University's First-Year Experience classes participated in servant leadership projects throughout the spring semester and shared their experiences in a celebration service. The service was a time of recognition for the students' accomplishments throughout the year.

The celebration was also a symbolic point of the completion of the academic year and to launch the students into their second year at Campbellsville University.

There were 23 FYE classes this year, and they all completed a service-learning project, some of which presented their project during the celebration service.

Jennings said, "We've learned how to be servant leaders, so let's put it into practice. We've become a part of something greater. We've picked up a passion to learn, to serve and to live. Let's start a chain reaction of challenge."

Arianna and Ariella Snyder, freshmen of Mount Sherman, discussed how their class helped lay a foundation of knowledge for students about the environment. This class presented a rain garden barrel presentation to a group of students in the gifted-and-talented program at Campbellsville Middle School, and held an Earth Day celebration event, which included planting shrubs on CU's campus.

They said, "Even the smallest difference can make the biggest change."

Carter, president of Campbellsville University, encouraged the first-year students to continue their acts of service because if it is not seen at a Christian University, then Campbellsville is no different from any other schools. He told the students he hoped their service projects had touched a part of their hearts that they didn't know was there to be so in touch so Christ can touch them and motivate them to do more service.

The FYE class is required for all first-time students of Campbellsville University, and the goal is to assist new degree-bound students. The purpose of this class is to maximize the students' potential to achieve academic success and adjust responsibly to the individual and interpersonal challenges of college life. Students are assisted in the areas of academic persistence, social integration and spiritual formation.

Campbellsville University receives historic piano collection

Campbellsville University has received the Vogt-Farrar Piano Collection, which consists of four historic pianos showing the evolution of the American piano industry from before the Civil War to the early 20th Century.

"This collection will give our students an opportunity to view and study stringed keyboard instruments built in the United States from the early 19th century to the early 20th," according to Dr. Wesley Roberts, professor of piano.

"It will be the only collection of its kind in Kentucky."

The pianos are a gift from Lloyd and Doris Farrar of Norris, Tenn. Lloyd Farrar taught musicology for many years at the University of Illinois, and Doris Farrar maintained a private piano studio.

"Campbellsville University is very pleased to accept the gift of pianos from the

Doris Farrar, seated, and Lloyd Farrar, top right, attended the dedication concert of the Vogt-Farrar Piano Collection at Campbellsville University. Vogt-Farrar Collection," Dr. Robert Gaddis, dean of the School of Music, said.

"The pianos will clearly demonstrate the historical development of the concert pianos from the middle of the 19th century through the 20th century.

"Dr. Lloyd Farrar is diligently working to restore one of the older pianos back into playing condition, which will be of significant interest to piano students and teachers."

Gaddis said the School of Music will "eventually house all the pianos, three table models and one upright piano, in a secure place with other antique instruments in a museum like fashion.

"We are honored to have these instruments in our collection."

The Farrar couple amassed a large collection of musical instruments produced by European and American manufacturers, and saw the publication of several early piano works, including Amy Beach's Summer Dreams for piano duet.

Three pianos are rectangular grands (sometimes called table grands). The oldest is a Knabe dating from 1854. It is believed to be the oldest extant instrument bearing the name of William Knabe alone. Knabe was a famous piano builder in Baltimore during the 19th Century.

George Eggert and Charles Bobbeth, ca. 1857-60 made the second rectangle grand in the collection. It is the only known surviving piano from the Eggert and Bobbeth partnership. A third rectangle grand is also a Knabe though of later vintage dating from ca. 1885. The collection is rounded out by a 1927 Steinway grand piano.

Dr. Wesley Roberts, professor of music, gave a dedication concert on the newly-rebuilt Steinway in the collection March 22.

He played works by French composers with anniversary dates this year: Claude Debussy (150th anniversary of his birth), Jacques Ibert (50th anniversary of his death), and Olivier Messiaen (20th anniversary of his death).

His wife, Sida Roberts, joined him for the last selection on the program, Amy Beach's "Summer Dreams" for piano duet.

The Farrars attended the piano collection dedication.

Sunday is Mother's Day in the United States and for most it will be a very special day. Telephone companies tell us it is their busiest day of the year. It is a day for remembering, for greetings and expressions of love.

Your mother may have been gone for many years, but there are still sounds and sights and smells of home, of screen doors banging in the summer time and the aroma of those fresh baked biscuits right out of the oven that greeted you as you got out of bed in the morning.

Intercollegiate sports on horizon at ECTC

By JEFF D'ALESSIO
Landmark News Service

For the first time since 1981, intercollegiate athletics could be available to Elizabethtown Community and Technical College students – possibly as soon as this fall.

A survey of students this year showed a budding interest in the possibility of having sports teams. School officials had been curious about the possibility and survey results confirmed interest.

"It would give our students a chance to participate," said Dale Buckles, chief student affairs officer. "It would give a lot of good student-athletes an opportunity to play. There's a real positive mood about it."

Because sports programs would receive no financial support from the school, funding presents a hurdle in pursuing athletics at ECTC.

ECTC spokeswoman Mary Jo King said while the school is behind adding a handful of athletic programs, financial backing would need to come from private sources.

She said it is likely programs initially would be on the club sport level, which would allow flexibility in scheduling games with other Kentucky colleges and universities.

"We want to make sure they are successful," King said of the programs. "And we hope they evolve into something bigger and open up more avenues. We are excited about the possibilities for our students."

Sports expected to be offered would be men's and women's soccer, basketball and baseball, and women's volleyball.

The previous school nickname, when the school was called Elizabethtown Community College, was the Barons and Buckles said that could return or a vote of the student body could determine a new name.

Not only did students respond to the survey about adding athletics, but Buckles, who coached the last athletic team at Elizabethtown Community College - men's basketball - said 80 area high school coaches were provided a survey. Thirty-eight replied.

"I believe the school will generate a lot of interest from kids in Hardin and surrounding counties and be able to fill a roster with quality players," Central Hardin High School baseball

coach Todd Thompson said. "With the way the economy is and money being tighter for families, players will be able to stay at home, get a good education and play baseball. ... I believe the decision will be welcomed by many."

Buckles said competition could begin as early as this fall. Early cost projections for starting a men's and women's soccer program, for instance, would be about $4,000 for uniforms, equipment, game officials and travel, he said.

Coaching staffs would be comprised of volunteers and Buckles said as word has spread about ECTC's interest in resuming athletics, coaches have inquired about helping out.

Another hurdle facing the school is a lack of on-site playing facilities. Buckles said ECTC would need to find existing play spaces such as high school fields and gymnasiums. He said there have been discussions about facility use.

Elizabethtown Independent Schools Superintendent Gary French knows firsthand the value of athletics at the college.

"ECC provided me the opportunity to continue playing basketball with the luxury of staying home," he said. "It was the springboard I needed to jumpstart my college experience. It also allowed me the opportunity to continue playing with many of my former teammates and other basketball players in Hardin and surrounding counties, while getting a quality education."

"By participating in basketball at this level, it developed a stronger connection for me to ECC and this community," he said.

After time as a club sport, a move to the National Junior College Athletic Association would follow. No other community colleges in Kentucky offer athletics, Buckles said.

He said if ECTC is an NJCAA member, games with schools from Tennessee and southern Indiana could be scheduled among other opponents.

No financial aid specifically for student-athletes will be available immediately, Buckles said.

"We want to have good programs and programs that are done the right way," he said.

Buckles said the hope is to support programs through fundraising efforts and not require a participation fee to supplement each program.

Handley out at Western

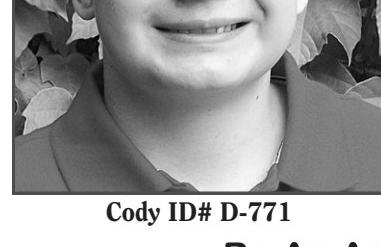

Paul Handley, boys' basketball coach at Western High School, learned recently that his contract would not be renewed, The Courier-Journal reported last week.

Handley, former LaRue County High School boys' basketball coach, told reporter Jason Frakes he was "surprised" by the decision and he "knew the nature of the business."

He coached 12 seasons at Western, posting a 126-183 record. Last season, the Warriors went 11-20.

Four of his former players or colleagues are now head coaches – Montrelle Irvin (Marion County), K.C. Goodin (Doss), Demond Thomas (Central Hardin girls) and Paul Childress (LaRue County), according to the article.

Handley said he plans to stay in coaching.

200 participate in National Day of Prayer services

By LINDA IRELAND

About 200 people participated in services Thursday morning for National Day of Prayer.

Residents, employees, family members and volunteers gathered in a dining room at Sunrise Manor Nursing Home to listen to a program streamed from Signature HealthCare's home office in Louisville and a few local speakers.

Local minister Mike Williams said the privilege of being able to gather in public prayer was an option that many other countries do not enjoy.

"If you ever travel overseas, you'll see how blessed we are," he said.

He and local minister David Wortham said our country, leaders and schools need prayer.

"Our nation needs lifted up," Williams said. "It stands in need of revival."

After the program, a balloon launch was held outside the dining room. Several residents gathered, each holding a balloon that had been tagged with a prayer request. Others watched the launch through the large windows overlooking the patio.

At the Sunrise Manor Adult Daycare building, the "Silver Angels" held their own remembrance of World Day of Prayer.

Staff and residents wrote their prayers on small pieces of paper. The prayers were read and placed in a cauldron and ignited.

"The messages were sent to the heavens in a spiral of smoke," said Daycare Director Beverly Heath. "The service was closed with a prayer and the singing of 'Hallelujah Chorus.'"

Another group, the Elizabethtown Area Christian Women's Club and guests, met at the Hodgenville Civic Center during the same timeframe.

EACWC is comprised of women from LaRue and surrounding counties and affiliated with Stonecroft Ministries. It meets monthly in private homes, according to Denise Garrett of Hodgenville who helped with the service. This is the third year they've held a public prayer service.

The program consisted of prayer and homilies – and some delicious finger foods.

Jean Mills read the proclamation for the NDP by President Barack Obama.

Hodgenville Mayor Terry Cruse, who attended both services, made a few comments.

"It's wonderful we live in a country where we

Jobless rate falls in March

Unemployment rates fell in 104 Kentucky counties between March 2011 and March 2012, according to the Kentucky Office of Employment and Training, an agency of the Kentucky Education and Workforce Development Cabinet.

In addition, 15 counties had a higher unemployment in March 2012 than in March 2011 while the unemployment rate in Clay County remained the same in March for both years.

LaRue County's unemployment rate dropped from 9.1 percent last March to 8.3 percent. It dropped a full point from last month's rate.

Of a 6,910 workforce, 6,339 people were employed.

Woodford County recorded the lowest jobless rate in the Commonwealth at 6.2 percent. It was followed by Oldham County, 6.7 percent.

Magoffin County recorded the state's highest unemployment rate — 17.5 percent.

Unemployment statistics are based on estimates and are compiled to measure trends rather than actually to count people working. Civilian labor force statistics include nonmilitary workers and unemployed Kentuckians who are actively seeking work. They do not include unemployed Kentuckians who have not looked for employment within the past four weeks. The statistics in this news release are not seasonally adjusted to allow for comparisons between United States, state and county figures.

everyone in the community to enjoy," Hawkins said.

Every hour, the "Mission Moment Statement" will be given by different speakers.

"This will be a series of facts, figures and information related to the American Cancer Society, Relay For Life and pertinent information for cancer survivors and caregivers," said Hawkins.

"Examples of this would be information like "Today in Kentucky 521 people will find answers to their questions about cancer by calling 1-800-227-2345 and visiting cancer.org" or "Today in Kentucky 108 cancer patients will receive help with transportation needs to get to their cancer treatment."

Twelve teams have been working for months to raise money and awareness for the cause.

Several teams have fundraisers planned through May 12 including Howardstown Relay and the Boaters, Campers and Horse Lovers teams.

"This event means so much to so many because everyone has been touched at some level by cancer," said Hawkins. "Relay is a way that we can come together to celebrate our survivors, remember those no longer with us, and fight back directly against cancer and its effects on our family, friends, and community."

Hawkins said the Relay committee members will be easy to spot during the event.

"I would like to thank each of them for their hard work and would encourage everyone to look for the yellow committee shirts at the event and thank them for their hard work and dedication to helping fight back against this dreaded disease."

To date, $45,380.16 has been collected by 12 teams and 184 official team members according to Finance Chair Katie McDowell. Of that amount, $4,250 is sponsorship money from local businesses such as Hardin Memorial Health, Garrett's Furniture, Fort Knox Federal Credit Union, Magnolia Bank, Bank of Buffalo, Nolin RECC, Nationwide Uniform, and Kentucky Farm Bureau of LaRue County. The LaRue County Herald News is the official media sponsor.
